To want change, to live change, to feel and see perpetual change. . .

To reach the balance of all times . . . that is the ultimate dream.

Time is such an elusive strength: it makes me discover yesterday and you today . . . together, perhaps, we can find tomorrow.

In the interval of a lifetime, what changes will be wrought?

And while our country seeks an honorable identity. . .

we at Franklin encounter our own battle of stability. It has never stopped . . . indeed, there shall be no end: each year, each day will bring new eras, trends and fresh attitudes in an everlasting attempt to establish traditions and better understanding.

Yet along the path we linger, remembering the traditions that never grow old.

The roots of a heritage must be strengthened with age and made fertile by the renewed knowledge of each generation.

To reach the balance of all times . . . that is the ultimate dream.

Homecoming

Continuing Tradition Reviving Spirit

A week of anticipation preceeded the announcement of the 1977 Homecoming court. Royalty from each class was announced for the first time to both candidates and student body at an assembly on Monday. Seniors, Karen Thiemann and Vince Barbour, Juniors, Neva Deitz and Jeff Nelson, Sophomores, Tonya James and Tom Ballard and Freshmen, Melissa Hastings and Mark Frack, made up the court.

October 3-7 was designed as Homecoming Week. Activities offered to students and faculty were gram sales, ribbon sales, a pie-eating contest and a sports contest. Students, as well as alumni, showed that they had interest in Homecoming through their participation in activities and attendance at sports events.

The Homecoming game was fought on Friday against Marshall. Students danced to the music of "Sneakers" at the year's first after game dance, held in the gym. The announcement of Queen Neva Dietz and her honorary escort Jeff Nelson, juniors, marked the conclusion of Homecoming Week activities.

Exec. Cabinet

Initiating Fun
Fighting Apathy

Meeting under the supervision of Mrs. Sue Rowe, Activities Director, Executive Cabinet carried on the tradition of being the leaders of student government. Headed by President Lance Condray, other members of the cabinet included Vice President Eileen Elmer, Secretary Karen Theiman, Treasurer Susan Hastings, and Publicity Chairman Sandy Conover. Members of the cabinet were chosen to serve for the entire 1977-78 school year, so that more projects could be completed by the experienced group. The fall term saw Executive Cabinet working on Homecoming Week, the Candyland Dance, United Way Week, and various assemblies, including one to introduce themselves and other cabinets to the freshman class. Some of the activities planned by the cabinet provided much enjoyment to the student body, while others helped in service to the community.

Humanities

Examining Cultures Celebrating Month

Human Relations Month was held in all Portland Public Schools, February 20 - March 17. Activities that celebrated the month here at Franklin included a Gong Show, a human relations forum, a Faculty Food Feast, and a showcase of cultural art in the main hall. The Social Studies Department also held a special "Human Relations Week" from March 13-17.

The Gong Show was an invitational assembly held on Thursday, March 2. Coordinator of the show was Mrs. Harriet Adair, Title VII Representative at Franklin. Acts that participated in the show were comprised of students and faculty, and material was original. Some of the talent demonstrated was singing, dancing and presentation of comedy routines.

On Wednesday, March 8, the Faculty Food Feast was held. Faculty at Franklin were invited to a tasty luncheon that included chow mein, teriyaki steak, hog maws and enchiladas. Many other entries and desserts were provided, so that the faculty could sample the foods of other countries.

Councils

Involving Students, Planning Activiities

Inter-Organizational Council, (I.O.C.), was comprised of student representatives of various groups and organizations at Franklin. Their main activity was handeling the business of scheduling various school activities to fit the school calendar. The months on the school calendar were filled with many activities and this sometimes caused conflicts in the scheduling. I.O.C. was headed by President Linda Coon, Vice President Jim Caputo, and Secretary Vicci Blackford. Advisor for the group was Mrs. Sue Rowe.

Franklin's 1977-78 Student Council was headed by Student Body Vice-President Eileen Elmer. Many projects were discussed during Student Council meetings as possible ways to help improve Franklin, both academically and socially. Such projects were painting murals in the gym and allowing more guest passes at dances held at Franklin. Committees were organized to investigate these projects and report back to Student Council. Members of each class were represented on these committees, so as to give an equal voice to all ranks of classes at Franklin.

Fall Play

Presenting Scapino
Involving Audience

The zany comedy "Scapino" was presented to the Quaker community on November 17, 18 and 19.

It was another Franklin hit production, only this time a little different. The physical demands on the actors were greater: rope swinging, motorcycle riding, a big chase scene and an abundance of "sausage beatings" were all a part of this "Scapino". The cast spent many hours working on technique and timing. Charcaters talking directly to the audience made this play special. Stepping over chairs and pushing his way through an aisle, Scapino asked one audience member for the time while sitting on the lap, and offered another a chocolate bar. Towards the end of the play, he even had the audience stomping their feet to help him fake the cavalry. All this and much more, including Franklin High's own Dell Arte troop who wore masks giving "Scapino" a little commedia style, guaranteed an evening of delight to viewers. Many new learning experiences were presented to the actors, who profited from "Scapino". In addition, Mr. Biggs confessed, "We had a lot of fun doing this play!"

Fall A.G.S.

Involving Girls Promoting Activity

"Getting more girls involved through our activities and letting students at Franklin know what the A.G.S. was doing," was the main ambition of the A.G.S. Fall Cabinet, according to Cyndi Baird, president. Other officers included Vicci Blackford, vice president; Linda Coon, secretary; Linda Miner, treasurer; and Eileen Elmer, publicity chairman. Class representatives selected by the officers were Tina Klassy, seniors; Jill Speciale, juniors; Susan Hill, sophomores; and Susie Elmer, freshman.

Fall Cabinet members stepped into the new school year with the annual Big-Little Sister Tea. Nearly 200 girls attended. Activities designed to boost spirit and raise money took place during the week of October 31 - November 4. A Halloween dressup day, an assembly and a number of novelty activities and sales attracted attention. The week concluded with a Sadie Hawkins Dance sponsored by the Associated Girls Society.

AGS/AFM

Working Together, Serving School

Franklin men got back on their feet during the spring semester. They carried on the traditional AFM activities, as well as co-sponsoring activities with the Associated Girls Society. Affiliated Franklin Men had been dissolved in the fall due to lack of interest, so the spring cabinet's primary objective was to spark enthusiasm.

AGS/AFM involved themselves in the school in various activities and service projects. These found them sponsoring a disco dance, a new student tea, and serving at the Rose Festival Brunch.

Men at Franklin were represented by Ken Hansen, president; Rick Barrigan, vice president; Jeff Nelson, secretary; Neal Dietz, treasurer; and Kerry Jobe, publicity chairman. Class representatives included Russ Martin, freshmen; André Pruitt, sophomores; Lance Condray, juniors; and Vince Leary, seniors.

Women at Franklin were represented by Liz Bridges, president; Linda Coon, vice president; Linda Miner, secretary; Eileen Elmer, treasurer; and Vicci Blackford, publicity chairman. Class representatives chosen by letters of application and review by the cabinet included Melissa Hastings, freshmen; Jerri Westphahl, sophomores; Lisa Ritthaler, juniors; and Susan Gartrell, seniors.

Christmas

Enjoying Activities Celebrating Season

Christmas time found students and faculty at Franklin very busy. Activities offered included the Candyland Dance, door decorating and a mid-winter music assembly.

The Candyland Dance was held on Saturday, December 10th. The dance, previously scheduled for a Friday evening, was rescheduled because of the conflict of sports activities on Friday night. The Candyland court was announced at a student body assembly held on Wednesday. Members of the court included: Freshmen Mindy Milo and Robbie Kandel; Sophomores Susan Garland and John Holenstien; Juniors Suzanne Wallace and Neal Dietz; and Seniors Kelly Kosik and Rick Barrigan. "It was a neat experience. I felt honored," expressed Suzanne Wallace after she and her escort, Neal Dietz, were chosen King and Queen of the Candyland Court. This proved to be the second major court that the junior representatives reigned over this year, the first being the Homecoming court.

The Mid-Winter music assembly was held on Wednesday, December 14. Combined talents of Franklin's vocal and instrumental music students provided enjoyable entertainment for all who attended the assembly. Presented twice, once during the school day for students and faculty.

Executive Cabinet took the opportunity of the Christmas season to promote activity that would include the entire student body. A door decorating contest among first period classes fulfilled this goal. Prizes were given for outstanding decorations in such catagories as: Most Traditional, Most Humorous, and Most Subject Oriented. Winners were treated to cookies and candy during class.

Winter Play

Searching for Play, Discovering "Picnic"

William Inge's play, "Picnic," was presented by the Franklin community on March 9, 10, and 11th.

The director, Mr. Brian Biggs, searched long and hard to find a script that would truly give the actors a range of human emotion and would stretch their capability to communicate a character. Finally, "Picnic" was discorered. Unlike the fall production "Scapino," "Picnic" was serious. It was dominated by female characters.

The action of this summer romance took place in a small Kansas town in the yard shared by Flo Owens and Helen Potts. The year was 1956. As soon as the audience entered the corridor of the auditorium they became a part of the 50's. The house crew made sure of that! Dressed in skirts, bobby-socks and saddle shoes, they promoted the mood of the play. Both crew and cast put a lot of hard work and hours of effort into "Picnic," another one of Franklin's many dramatic accomplishments.

Contest

Seniors Soaring Faculty Flopping

The Super Seniors battled the faculty twice this year, in the fall in volleyball and in the traditional basketball game in the spring. The senior volleyball team, coached by Kelly Kosik and Karen Thieman, fought hard but were easily defeated by the faculty members. This is the first year for a senior-faculty volleyball game, but the large turn-out by both the student body and team members proved it will become a tradition.

The main reason for such a success seemed to be the fact that the team had both female and male members.

In the spring came a chance for the girls to get involved again. This time, as the senior rally, they cheered the guys on. Chosen by varsity rally members, the girls were given two weeks to "get their act together." Rally member Patty DePinto commented, "It was a lot of fun, but we really had to rush to get ready for the game." After 23 years of losses the seniors came through with a 47-41 win over the faculty. Stomping and cheering to "We're number one," the seniors went crazy as the buzzer sounded the end of the game and they realized that this time, maybe, they really WERE number one.

Junior Prom

Enjoying Music
Having Fun

"This One's For You" was the theme for the Junior Prom, held on March 31st in the gym, from 8:00-11:00 p.m.

"Chaser" provided the music for the evening. The Junior Prom was headed by chairperson Donanne Bollig. She was in charge of selecting committee chairmen, chaperones, court, pictures, and programs.

Members of the court included Zeena Pliska, Pam North, Cathy Butler, Donanne Bollig, Terry Crotteau, Anne Bobzien, Jeff Nelson, Neal Deitz, Lance Condray, David Stone, Bernie Shadder, and Scott Williams.

At intermission, 1977 royalty Rick Barrigan and Keely Pillette announced the King and Queen, Scott Williams and Anne Bobzien. New Pleiades and Friars members were named. Michelle Daschell, Julie Belmore, Lori Willimonte, Dorthy Kerzel, Renee Russell made up the incoming Pleiades. Friars added Bernie Shadder, Frank Eleazar, Duane Elmer, Marcus Rostig, and Aaron Lance to their roster.

Senior Prom

Reveling Late
Saying Goodbye

Enthusiasm was the key to the success of one of the finest senior proms Franklin has seen in a long time. The music, provided by the "Great Divide" was a combination of disco and sentimental melodies that kept the attention of the sensitive seniors.

The colors, midnight blue and peach, added a melancholy enchantment to the Portland State University ballroom. Other decorations included a mirror ball hung from the ceiling and a flower-covered archway leading to the door.

The court was chosen by the class on the basis of what each had done for the school. The members were Doug Walters, Lisa Johnson, David Leathers, Linda Meadows, Bill Geiger, Bev Brannon, Camron Neal, Kelly Tilton, James Welch, Melia Torrence, Jim Caputo, Vicci Blackford, Gary Fujino, and Susan Gartrell. During a short break, to the tune of the prom theme "It's a Long Way There," Queen Melia and her escort Gary were crowned by last year's Queen and escort, Tera Balough and Joe DePinto.

Rose Festival

Saluting Hollywood, Choosing Tina

"Thank you for making a dream come true." exclaimed Tina Klassy, Franklin's 1978 choice for Rose Festival Princess. She spoke just moments after she was announced by Suzanne Kirkland, Rose Festival Princess from Franklin in 1977.

Lavish ceremonies held on April 18th and 19th provided the backdrop to crowning the new princess. Surrounded by the rest of Franklin's 1978 court, Vicci Blackford, Linda Meadows, Keely Pillette, Karen Thiemann, and Melia Torrence, Princess Tina smiled for cameramen, reporters, parents and fellow students who attended the assembly.

The 1978 Rose Festival theme, "Hurrah for Hollywood," also provided the theme for Franklin's production. Each candidate was introduced by Master of Ceremonies Jim Caputo as a star in Franklin's show. She entered to the theme song of her favorite movie, curtsied, and then made her speech. She was also given an impromptu question to answer, related in some way to movies.

After her selection as representative from Franklin, Princess Tina looked forward to the many activities that she would participate in during the festival. She eagerly anticipated coronation night, in hopes of becoming the first queen from Franklin in 36 years.

May Fete

Recognizing Service Honoring Fourteen

The tradition of May Fete was continued this year as Eileen Elmer, escorted by Jim Caputo, was crowned Queen.

May Fete began with the senior class nominations of their classmates who had served the school in various outstanding ways. In turn, the teachers and counselors evaluated the names and presented the list to the seniors. They then voted on the seven boys and seven girls that made up the court. This year's court consisted of Bev Brannan and Vince Leary, Linda Coon and Vince Barbour, Eileen Elmer and Mark Barbour, Susan Hastings and Jim Caputo, Keely Pillette and Doug Walters, Karen Thiemann and Steve Glenn, and Melia Torrence and Rick Barrigan. Chamberlains were Irene Tikerpuu and Donna Nigo. Scott Derby served as Prime Minister.

May Fete is a time to honor the senior girl and guy who have done many service projects for Franklin during their four years of high school. Queen Eileen Elmer and her honorary escort Jim Caputo summed up their experience saying, "These were very exciting moments in our lives. We'll never forget them, ever."

Commencement

Receiving Diplomas
Hugging Friends

In the ninety-third commencement ceremony of Franklin High School, the class of 1978 faced a larger world on Sunday afternoon, May 28, in the Civic Auditorium. Speakers for the event were Mrs. Beverly York, Board of Education, Irene Tikerpuu and Jim Caputo.

The Graduating class of 347 members also participated in several other traditional activities. Beginning this hectic round was a Baccalaureate service held at Sunnyside Methodist Church. The Senior Ensemble performed at this ceremony, as well as at the Senior Assembly and the Commencement Exercises. The Quaker Club sponsored both the Baccalaureate and the following reception.

The seniors celebrated their last day, May 23, with mingled exuberance and sorrow.

The Senior Assembly on May 25 was the time for announcing the many awards and scholarships won by the graduating Quakers, and the presentation of the 77-78 senior slides, which featured a Star Trek theme.

The assembly was followed by a luncheon at the Monte Carlo Restaurant.

In the words of Linda Gallagher, "it was great to get out of school."

Almanac

Seeing Results Meeting Standards

"We were handicapped by the lack of experience staffers", observed Bob Loewen, Almanac staff member. Almanac staff consisted of four members returning from the previous year, and 19 beginners.

Applicants for Yearbook staff positions must be either juniors or seniors, and be recommended by a teacher. If interested in being on the staff, they then send a letter of application to Mrs. Miriam Puckett, Almanac advisor. The criteria which Mrs. Puckett uses to judge applicants include; "dependability, attendance, evidence of real interest, grade point average, and particular interests needed by the staff."

"Once on the Almanac staff, we work extremely hard", claimed Donna Blackburn, bookkeeper. Patty DePinto enthused, "It is exciting, seeing the results of my hard work."

Post Staff

Relating Facts, Expressing Views

"We work better together than we did in previous years," stated Lisa Johnson, editor-in-chief of the Post. Staff members are very involved. This may be part of the reason for the increased response to the paper.

Post staff has initiated many changes, the most obvious being the size of each issue. The previous four page format was increased every other issue to eight pages. Readers with comments on stories, ideas for articles, letters to the editor or any other information which they wished to have reach the Post staff could deposit them in a box in the main hall. Previously used to hold candy wrappers, gum, and other odds and ends, the suggestion box has been appropriated by the staff.

"Being on the Post staff is a learning experience." commented Bob Lewis, business manager. Added writer Jill Workman "We learned to get down on our knees and beg for an extension."

NHS

Setting Goals Influencing Society

"We want National Honor Society to do more for our school and community," explained Lisa Johnson, President. "Our main aims are to raise enthusiasm for scholarship and promote development of character."

The 69 members of NHS were involved in several fundraising and charitable activities. They participated in their annual Christmas project, stuffing stockings for Multiple Sclerosis victims. Also among their activities were ushering for various musical programs, handling announcements and collections of the United Way fund drive and holding sales and trivia contests in an effort to raise revenue for the society.

"We want NHS members to have a positive influence on society. We have many willing hands, but we want even more people to get involved," stated NHS advisor Miss Beryl Piper.

Honor Clubs

Showing Dedication
Donating Time

President Lisa Johnson classified Plieades as "10 senior girls with high G.P.A.'s and leadership ability who have given service to their school and community." Friars is the male counterpart of Plieades.

Together and separately they demonstrated the talents and dedication which qualified them for the honor clubs, donating time and energy to various projects. Among their joint activities were serving at proms, assisting with the New Student Friendship Party, and a Plieades/Friars miniweek. Plieades' other activity was serving at the faculty Christmas Tea. Friars were responsible for painting the goal posts and obtaining a tree for the Christmas dance.

"It is really enjoyable working with people in an organization like this," declared Plieade Cheryl Bland.

Spanish Club

Keeping Busy Planning Activities

"Spanish Club provides an opportunity for members to participate in fun and social activities, and practice their Spanish at the same time," enthused Jayne Lux, president of "Los Cuaqueros."

"Los Cuaqueros" or "The Quakers" were kept busy participating in bake sales, running concession stands, and managing a mini-week. They put their club funds to good use by dining out at Mexican restaurants, going roller skating, having a Christmas party, and joining in at Mardi-Gras, a party involving all foreign language classes.

Officers for the 25-member club were Jayne Lux, president; Patti Lukrofka, vice president; Lorinda Martin, secretary; Kathy Palmer, treasurer; Anita Hall, historian; David Stone, publicity chairman; Anthony Kell, sgt. at arms; and Miss Dorothy Grant, advisor.

Russian Club

Absorbing Culture
Taking Trips

Members of Russian Club, which Bob Loewen claimed "is the best foreign language club in the Portland Public Schools," participated in many cultural, and some "just plain fun" activities. Included in these activiies were field trips to view various Russian films, to hear Russian singer Ivan Rebroff, and to see the Ukranian and Georgian dancers.

Three pot-luck dinners were held at members' homes. Members participated in Mardi Gras, and held their annual "Vetcherinka" or evening party, which featured Russian food, dancing, and singing. A slide show of Russia highlighted the evening.

A class activity which most enjoyed was the decoration of Ukranian Easter eggs. A display case filled with these art objects enabled the total student body to appreciate the students' skills.

Two weekends were spent out of town; one at the beach, and the other at Russian Camp. Like other language camps, this controlled environment provided a totally Russian atmosphere.

Speech Team

Competing at Meets Capturing Trophies

"Overall, I am very proud to coach such an outstanding group of students," commented Mrs. Kris Wilkins, Speech Team advisor. Franklin's Speech Team did extremely well in Portland Interscholastic League Competition. Mrs. Wilkins credited this success to experience, hard work, and the fact that each member is supportive of the other members.

Participating in speech competition were 15 members. Fund raising activities were promoted by officers Jim Caputo, president, Michelle Daschel, secretary, and historians Carol Cassell and Irene Tikerpuu.

Prerequisites for membership in Speech Team were enrollment in a speech class and competencies in various speaking areas. Capable students were allowed to compete with the team when possible, to determine if the students enjoyed competitive speaking, and could succeed doing it.

"We like what we do," explained Lisa Ritthaler, "But when the team is good, the fun increases."

Drama Clubs

Promoting Drama Observing Plays

"Thespians is a good organization because it includes not only the actors, but everyone involved in play production," stated Liz Bridges.

The eligibility requirement for Thespian membership is 10 play points. The status of Honor Thespian is reached when members have earned 60 points.

Thespian officers served semester terms. According to Jim Caputo, "This is more fair to all Thespian members. More people have a chance to hold an office."

Franklin Thespians withdrew from the international organization because they were paying for privileges and materials which they didn't receive. They saved the money which they would have spent on membership dues, and spent it on field trips. One trip was made to Ashland to see the plays "Taftuffe," "Mother Courage and Her Children," and "Private Lives." After the plays, members were taken for an extensive backstage tour. Eighteen members competed in the Speech Arts Festival at University of Portland.

Band

Playing at Games Fighting Boredom

Senior band's sixty one musicians, largest number enrolled since Mr. Jack Dalby started conducting at Franklin, were in great demand for performances this year. Besides playing in football and basketball games and pep assemblies, they marched in the Galleria parade downtown and performed in an annual Christmas program at Franklin. The band had to prepare for football and basketball games each week. "We are more than happy to play for the school," stated Mr. Dalby. "It is our school service." The music they played ranged from the Franklin fight song to the popular "Stripper".

For his fifth year at Franklin, Mr. Dalby's aim is "to fight boredom." To accomplish this he lets the students choose the music they want to play on Fridays.

Musicians

Developing Players Improving Skills

The orchestra consisted of twelve students, most of them playing string instruments. "We need to get more kids, especially in grade school, to take interest in playing string instruments," commented orchestra director Mr. Jack Dalby. "It takes years of practice to develop a good string player. But in spite of low enrollment, we still play fabulous music." The group chose classical music to play. Orchestra was not in great demand for outside-of-school performances, but played in the Christmas program. Orchestra member Nancy Foss was chosen to play for this year's Oregon All-State Band.

"We have a really great sax section," commented Mr. Dalby of stage band. "We also have a pretty good trumpet section." Stage band consisted of about seventeen players from both Franklin High School and Atkinson grade school. Stage band played in the annual Christmas presentation as well as everywhere Senior band played. As in previous years, Mr. Dalby was assisted by Mr. Bill Davis, music teacher at Atkinson school. Both teachers have worked to develop the stage band program, beginning about three years ago.

Choirs

Planning Activities
Singing For School

For her first year at Franklin, Mrs. Roberta Quarino planned many activities for the choir groups. Concert Choir, consisting of 57 members, sang in the Christmas program at Franklin, Hosford grade school, the spring concert, commencement and the University of Portland Choral Festival. Cadet Choir, having 45 members, and Intermediate Choir having 34, all performed for feeder schools around Franklin. In the Christmas program, the choirs combined with the Band and drama departments to present "T'was the Night Before Christmas."

Ensemble

Taping Music
Singing in Harmony

Mrs. Roberta Quarino's four ensemble groups were engaged in many school and outside school activities. Sophomore Ensemble consisted of 14 members. They performed at Loaves and Fishes and also did a musical tape for KPBS radio station. Senior Ensemble has 12 members enrolled. They sang at the Masonic Temple, Veteran's Hospital, and Lloyd Center. They also sang in the National Honor Society Installation in January. The Junior Ensemble with 12 members performed for the senior citizens at the Laurelhurst Presbyterian Sr. Citizen's Luncheon. Swing Ensemble consisted of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, They sang for feeder schools around Franklin.

Assistants

Demonstrating Skill Meeting Demands

New to the production room this year was Mrs. Jan Greenfild. Although she had been at Franklin for over ten years, this was her first close encounter with production. She listed the students assistants' job as "learning to do a neat job which is acceptable to the teacher requesting it." Although some students at first took the class simply to fill up an empty period, their opinions have since changed. Ramona Waits commented, "There is a lot to do, and I enjoy being kept busy."

Suze Barton commented about working in the counseling office, "Working here gives us an idea of what working in a business office is like. It's interesting, and makes me feel useful."

"A broken leg was the reason I took this class," explained Judee Kelly in the attendance office. "I had to drop my gym class, and replaced it with this class because I thought it would be interesting. I was right. It is."

Assistants

Handling Problems Maintaining Order

Mr. Charles Ercolin, Head Librarian, advised anyone who plans on going to college to take the library assistant course. The course is worth one credit. Library assistants learned by practical experience how to use the library to the fullest extent. New features of the library, such as the "author of the month" display, added to the average of twenty-five students per period using the library and kept the assistants extremely busy. Leslie Trzil commented, "There is always something exciting happening in the library! It is a neat place to start the day." Mr. Ercolin returned the compliment "There is no way we could operate without the help of the assistants."

The new emphasis on career information provides Social Studies Resource Center aides with new avenues of work. Their other duties include all the aspects of running an office, such as filing, running errands, cleaning tables, and shelving books. Mrs. Bonnae Lindley enthused "I find my staff enjoyable and hope that they learn something from this experience."

"English Resource Center is both a place for individuals to meet buddies, and a place for classroom work," explained Mrs. Virginia Oreskovich, library assistant.

Students staffs in the resource center help fulfill any needs of the patrons, such as finding and checking out books to the students.

Mrs. Sandra Varner, library assistant in the Manning Career Center, is new to the school. She stated, "I think my student staff is fantastic. They're a great help. Stan Hency remarked, "I took this class because it seemed interesting, different."

Assistants

Receiving Credit
Gaining Experience

Mrs. Psyche Miller has been at Franklin for 25 years. She commented "I was hired as a bookkeeper, but now I do everything else as well." Helping her were 12 student assistants who concentrated mainly on selling, leaving Mrs. Miller free to deal with book work.

Student assistants in the book room received one-half credit for helping Mrs. Jeanne Schultz with checking books in and out, setting up film schedules, and other general tasks. "I enjoy working with the teachers and students," exclaimed Mrs. Schultz. Things are always changing, which makes working in the book room interesting."

Assisted by two students, Mrs. Marilyn Derby kept track of the number of students in each class, and the total enrollment for the school. Also among their duties was making up class schedules, after being notified by Vice Principal Mr. Robert Henderson, which classes were being offered. Suzanne Wallace explained, "Good attendance is a must for staff members."

Under the direction of Mr. Britt Davis, the projectionists were kept extremely busy. Their duties included not only distributing equipment and running projectors for various classes, but also taping all home varsity basketball games. The projectionists were trained in class, though many had had previous experience with the equipment.

Helping School Preparing Food

Helping with Open House, distributing and collecting books, and patrolling athletic events were just some of the involvements of the Quaker Club. "The main interest of the Quaker Club is to better the education of our kids and to let them know we care about their stay at Franklin," pressed club president Mrs. Jan Kegley.

Curriculum Council consisted of about twenty members: teacher representatives from each department, and parents. They were concerned with all aspects of the instructional program, with emphasis on current problems and proposals for change. The Council was headed by Mr. Phil Smith, with Pat Nesbitt, vice president; Mrs. Betty Johnston, secretary; and Mr. Robert Henderson, Administrative advisor.

"Our staff is more than willing to make special orders for students if we are given one day's notice, and the order fits in with the available supplies and nutritional needs" stated Mrs. Enid Button, head of cafeteria staff.

Cafeteria staff consisted of eleven women, with work days varying from four through eight hours. Among their duties were "preparing and serving nutritious food, cleaning up, and bookkeeping."

The failure of a recent levy caused each person on the custodial staff to lose five work days for the year. Mr. Edward Drais, head custodian, regretted this fact. When the total staff of fourteen members was considered, this resulted in a loss of seventy days for the staff.

Earning Credits

New to the school was an organization of choir officers and section leaders. The officers were elected by the Concert Choir in the fall. They were responsible for assisting Mrs. Roberta Quarino in decision-making and leadership in the choir.

The section leaders were responsible for the daily handing out and collecting of music folders. They took attendance for their sections.

The Choir Officer/Section Leaders organized and supervised Music Mini-Week, designed to promote music participation and raise funds for the Choir's trip to Burnaby, British Columbia. The choir sold grams, singing grams, candy, and baked goods to raise the needed revenue.

"Ski Club is unique in the fact that students can earn one-half credit for taking skiing lessons," explained Mr. Robert Coles, advisor. Mr. and Mrs. Jon Abraham also served as adult advisors.

Comprised of 78 members, Ski Club affectionadoes met the only requirement for the class. That requirement was being able to afford all the involved expenses. Each Saturday for eight weeks, Ski Club made a trip to Timberline Lodge. A weekend skiing trip in Bend, Oregon, highlighted the season.

President Tina Klassy, Vice-President Linda Miner, and Secretary Linda Coon promoted fund-raising activities for the club. Among these activities were gram sales and bake sales.

Dance Teams

Increasing Practice Creating Routines

"Drill Team provides a creative dance situation," observed Ms. Patricia Specht, advisor. "Everything is original with the group, including choreography and costumes."

Dancing mainly to rock and soul music, Drill Team entertained at basketball games, pep assemblies, and class assemblies.

In an effort to prepare more quickly for competition, members increased their practice sessions to two or three times a week, after school.

"Drill Team is a good experience," enthused Wendy Langford. "We are doing something for ourselves and the school, getting things accomplished."

Competing in the small division with 16 members performing at one time, Dance Line placed third at the Rex Putnam Half Time Competition. Dance Line advisor Miss Debbie Harris, indicated that the success of Dance Line was a reflection of the hard work done by the team. To be eligible for Dance Line, members were required to have a minimum of 2.5 GPA and a strong interest in dance.

Dance Line was a close-knit group even when not competing. They participated in other group activities such as slumber parties and spectators at competition in which they were not competing.

Principals

Being Friendly Working Hard

Dr. Arthur Westcott led the administration of Franklin High School, continuing his opendoor policy to the students. He was a friend to all students, as well as an authority.

Mr. Wayne Lunde was part-time administrative assistant. He handled disciplinary problems and helped other administrators when needed.

The responsibility for supervision of the boys was Mr. Marvin Flitcroft's. He was also in charge of school finances and the student store. Working with Mr. Flitcroft was Mrs. Ellen Law. She was responsible for assemblies, social events, and counseling, as well as supervision of girls.

Mr. Robert Henderson began working as curriculum vice-principal two years ago. His duties included handling federal moneys, grants, and ordering supplies such as books and science equipment. Class schedules also were his responsibility.

Art

Exploring City Displaying Talents

New to the Art Department this year is the Architects-in-Schools program headed by architect Bob Galante. Students and teachers from the Art, Social Studies, English, Science, Math, and Industrial Arts Departments had the opportunity to be exposed to the expertise of an architect. Among the various activities that took place were walking tours of various parts of the city to explore the way the city progressed. A longrange project was the planned remodeling of the student lounge.

An art history class and a drawing class were both added to the curriculum. Art history emphasizes the development of art rather than the learning of art skills.

Once again the Art Department sponsored the monthly Friday Surprise. Among the activities were face painting and silk screening of teeshirts.

A major project of the Art Department was the designing and photo silk screening of a 1978 calendar. All students designed calendars for a specific month, and then chose the best ones. A lot of hard work was put into the production of the calendars. They were sold during December, and the profit went to the commercial art classes.

Business

Learning Skills, Obtaining Jobs

Walking through the upper wing of the building, one hears the busy sound of typewriters and office machines. This is the result of a busy and productive Business Education Department.

Mr. Gerald Eurich directed this career-oriented department which offered courses such as business law, typing, accounting, and office practice.

The state-required personal finance class had good response and proved to be popular. Sophomores and juniors learned some of the basic aspects of business and the work world.

Carried again was the Cooperative Work Experience program. This is a separate program from the one in the Career Center. Students may apply for office jobs and take a business course concurrently. Students receive 2 credits. Mr. Eurich commented that even though the enrollment was high, he would like to see more participation from the students.

English

Studying to Learn, Communicating

Reading skills were emphasized in the English department, with two new classes added to enrich the program. Getting into Books encourages the students to go beyond learning just what happened. They see the personalities that the author puts into the characters. Discussion of the materials read is a vital part of the class.

Reading 1 is designed to aid the student in recognizing weaknesses in reading comprehension. Class work helps correct the problems.

Into its second year, the Laubach program continued to help students who need to improve their reading. Laubach is an international program used in the United States and South America. It is based at Syracuse University in New York. The basic design of the course is to teach students phonics so that they may decode words. Tutors are used on a one-to-one basis with the students. The tutors are capable Franklin High students that have attended a reading workshop.

Languages

Translating Stories Learning Vocabulary

Now there is a breath of fresh air in the Foreign Language Department. Current students went to elementary schools to recruit freshmen for the program. They explained the learning and fun encountered in taking a foreign language.

An advantage of taking a foreign language is the chance to increase your knowledge of English. Debbie Slezak remarked, "It makes you think about how you put sentences together." Miss Grant, department head, mentioned that the students enrolled in a foreign language have higher English SAT scores.

The culture of the people who speak the language is just as important as is the grammar. Throughout the year, students attended dances and plays to enrich their formal studies. Eating out at international restaurants was one of the more delicious activities.

An interesting aspect of the foreign language program is a chance to spend a weekend in the woods at a language camp. During the weekend, students dance, sing, play games, and do various crafts, all related to their foreign language. The object of the camp is to try and speak as little English as possible. This was the first year that the beginning students had their camp separate from the advanced students. This was done to encourage the students not to be afraid if they made a mistake.

Home Ec.

Caring for Kids Improving Skills

"Boys make good ministers, lawyers, and doctors, so why shouldn't they make good fathers?" observed Mrs. Ruby Sewright. Boys would benefit from the child care class, as would the children. Few students realize "the girls actually operate a pre-school program four mornings a week." They learn child management and how to enjoy children. They "learn to become teachers' aides in pre-school programs." Child care is really a "human relations lab," where the emotional, mental and physical aspects of children are explored.

The curriculum in the department has been revised to include the personal finance competency.

Enrollment has increased in both the foods and clothing classes. More boys are participating in the foods class. People are realizing that culinary and sewing skills "are much more valuable."

Ind. Arts

Displaying Crafts, Stressing Careers

Projects, careers, and money making activities filled the Industrial Arts department in the 1977-78 school year. Under the direction of Mr. John Shefler, the department sponsored Christmas light sales and a fine arts festival. Ample opportunity was provided for students to learn about drafting, electronics, woodworking, metal working, or auto mechanics.

All of the classes offered in the department were carried through from last year. Career clusters made it possible for students to receive valuable training for college or apprenticeship. The clusters offered were construction careers, electronics, machine and auto working, and metallurgy. The drafting classes produced outstanding house plans.

Students enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere of the classes, finding them enjoyable as well as productive.

Mathematics

Teaching Financing Showing Skills

Incorporated within the Mathematics Department's curriculum this year are classes in personal finance to accomodate the new state-wide, high school competencies. Freshmen are required to meet both Franklin and area-wide competencies with a designated percentage, regardless of work done in class.

The department plans to start bringing in exceptional eighth grade students from feeder schools for one class of algebra. Enrollment increased in computer math this year.

The main reason for students failing math has been poor attendance. It is mainly the freshman students who have this attendance problem.

Music

Receiving Honors Hosting School

Starting with a new vocal music teacher and culminating with a trip to British Columbia, the Music Department, chaired by Mr. Jack Dalby, experienced an outstanding year of honor and achievement.

New to Franklin, Mrs. Roberta Quarino has taught choral music in both elementary and high schools. Many of the choral groups in Franklin sang in grade schools in the city. "I'm delighted with the Franklin students and am proud to take them to perform anywhere," commented Mrs. Quarino.

The year's biggest event was a reciprocal visit to Vancouver, B.C. The Burnaby students arrived at Portland on April 20, when they were treated to a potluck dinner and dance. Friday they gave a concert, and were given a tour of the Organ Grinder restaurant. They returned to Burnaby on the 22nd. The following weekend the Franklin concert band traveled to the Canadian city. Students stayed with families of the host school's students.

Among the many honors received by the department were the six superior and the three excellent ratings received at the Portland Solo-Ensemble contest. The school also had 16 representatives in the Area 3 Honor Choir and 20 representatives in the Honor Band.

Altogether the Music Department enjoyed a thoroughly productive year.

P.E., Health

Fencing, Learning CPR

Field hockey, volleyball, weight lifting, and even fencing are just some of the activities offered in the Physical Education classes at Franklin.

A new class offered was personal fitness, a girl's class which stressed aspects of keeping slim. Enrollment was high for this class, and students responded well, according to Mrs. Marilyn Olson.

Mr. Walt Buckiewicz directed the department. The rest of the staff consisted of Mr. Jon Abraham, Miss Debbie Harris, Mrs. Marilyn Olson, and Mrs. Sue Rowe. All classes were offered as coed, except for freshman gym.

A new director and a new teacher brought about some changes in the Health Education Department for 1977-78. Making the transistion from 4-year Activities Director to health teacher, Mr. Larry Barnett taught several classes on the sophomore and junior level. "I thoroughly enjoyed it," he said. Miss Beryl Piper served as the new department chairman. Miss Piper taught a full load of classes. Mr. Tom Thomas also taught sophomore and junior health because driver's edcuation was not offered separately.

Science

Exploring Unknowns Making Discoveries

Making a comeback in the Science Department this year was second-year chemistry and physics.

Seventeen students were enrolled in this class. Students set up their own course of study, using various topics suggested by Mr. Leonard A. Scheele and Mr. Joseph Sklenicka. "The class gives you the responsibility and you take it upon youself to do things," asserted Jeff Elliott, senior student.

The enrollment in the general science and applied science classes increased.

Back in the classroom after full-time work as an administrative assistant, Mr. Wayne Lunde taught one general science class. Mr. Dario Raschio added a general science class to his biology class teaching assignment.

Soc. Studies

Reading Maps
Figuring Taxes

A new approach to citizenship was taken this year. Instead of dealing with history by use of a chronological approach, some classes were taught with themes in mind. This seemed to give more continuity to the present course. Various themes included the way the U.S. arrived at the present governmental system, slavery from the beginning to present, and the ways in which the U.S. has protected the nation from foreign powers. Updated books were used to give the student a chance to study recent happenings during their lifetime.

New to the faculty this year was Mr. Jack Ryan. Originally from Trinidad, Mr. Ryan came to the United States to further his education. He studied theology and sociology in three different colleges. He is in his eighth year of teaching. Asked why he became a social studies teacher, Mr. Ryan explained, "It's the only thing I could do", referring to his educational background. "I enjoy government and politics. I'm a political animal."

Upperclassmen can complete the social studies requirement in two different ways. They can take SS7-8, a year-long course that deals with American Government and economics. They could, instead, take two semester courses, American Government and Sociology.

Alternatives

Learning Survival
Finding Jobs

Alternative education provided a worthwhile program for students who needed to bolster their reading and mathematical skills. By receiving individual assistance, kids were able to improve quite well in their studies.

Besides working on basic education, students were involved in careers. During the students' freshman and sophomore years, they have jobs working around the school in the cafeteria, bookroom, and other related areas. While juniors and seniors, students find jobs, often in non-profit organizations.

English as a second language was a class for students who have not yet learned the English language. This was the sixth year the class has been offered.

Heading the new Special Education program at Franklin were Mrs. Laurie Tybom and Mrs. Mary Plum. A new federal law states that all students are entitled to an education. If a student requires an individualized program, a public high school must provide one. The program has been used successfully in the Portland Public Schools for the past five years.

Retirees

Taking Memories Leaving Influence

Mr. Charles Pulliam taught social studies at Franklin, beginning in 1954. In 1960 he moved to Marshall High School for four years. He then returned to Franklin for his remaining years as a teacher.

Following his college education at Oregon State University, Mr. Pulliam went into the Navy.

His retirement plans include commercial fishing in Alaska during the summer, and a trip to Spain in the winter.

Mrs. Sarah Borchers became a counselor at Franklin 7 years ago. During these years she helped many kids on their way through high school.

Mrs. Borchers received her formal education from the University of Montana. She then received her M.A. at the University of Oregon.

After her retirement she plans to travel to Europe and do volunteer work for Red Cross and other organizations.

Mrs. Emma Moore began her formal education at William Smith College in New York. She then attended New York State University. After teaching in New York, Mrs. Moore went to the University of Oregon for her master's degree.

While teaching at Jefferson High School, someone asked her to become a counselor. After a time of teaching English, social studies, and being a librarian, she went into counseling. She served as a counselor at Franklin for 20 years.

Her retirement plans are to travel to Europe and Asia.

Counseling

Scheduling Classes Helping Students

Although there is never a dull moment in the life of a Franklin counselor, there are certain times during the year, such as forecasting, that pack kids into the office.

All the counselors worked hard to schedule the right classes for the students, take care of credits and requirements, and always be there when someone had a problem.

The department consisted of eight counselors: Mr. Don Nelson, Mrs. Emma Moore, Mr. Bill Burnam, Mr. Lew Parks, Mrs. Jane Timmons, Mr. Yoshinobu Terada, Mr. Dean Machley, and Mrs. Harriet Adair.

In addition to all of their other duties, some counselors advised the class cabinets. Mr. Nelson and Mrs. Moore worked with the seniors. Mr. Burnam handled the juniors. Mr. Parks and Mrs. Timmons advised the sophomores, and Mr. Mauchley advised the freshmen.

Mr. Mauchley also served as the college coordinator. Students would go through him to take tests and apply for scholarships and grants. Mr. Mauchley reported that about 35% of the seniors were college bound.

Mrs. Harriet Adair was the Title VII coordinator. She handled the Human Relations activities and worked hard during Human Relations month.

All in all, a good counseling department kept the students happy, and the school running smoothly.

Media Centers

Providing Space Fulfilling Needs

One of the most unique things about Franklin's media centers is that they fulfill so many needs.

The English Resource Center, the Social Studies Resource Center, and the Library are all adequate places for study. Each provides an abundance of reasearch material for the students. But more than just being a place to study, every media center is a place to go and relax. More and more students use the media centers to read the paper, play a game, or catch up on the latest issue of their favorite magazine.

Mr. Charles Ercolin was known as the media specialist. He handled the job by purchasing books, running all of the centers, and working for the students. Lectures and presentations explaining the functions of the library were featured. Mr. Ercolin presented shows of students as a public relations service.

Media Centers

Useful Places

Many Facilities

Two very helpful media centers are the Manning Career Center, and the Business Resource Center.

If you are in need of a typewriter or an adding machine, you can go to the Business Resource Center and use one. Students find it extremely convenient when they are in need of a typewriter for a term paper, a typing assignment, or just practice on a typewriter. Accounting students can go in and catch up on their work by using the adding machines. There is usually a business teacher available at all times.

The Manning Career Center, run by Mr. Bob Coles, provides a wide variety of information to students about occupations, schools, college preparation, and military opportunities.

But more than just things to read, the center offers slide shows on countless occupations. There is also a computer open for the students use, that is packed with information about practically any occupation. You can also learn about Oregon colleges and technical schools by using this computer. And if you have no idea what your abilities are, there is an aptitude test that matches up your abilities with certain occupations, which are listed off by the computer.

Job Credit

Exploring Careers Working Hard

Credit for working was again available to Franklin students through the Work Experience program this year. Students working a minimum of 16 hours per week, who needed the additional credit, were eligible for the program. Approximately 100 students participated in the program, and their jobs ranged from fast-food restaurant workers to secretaries.

Franklin students were also able to participate in a horticulture program called Green Thumb. The students learned all aspects of plant growth and care, and also learned about the floral industry.

A small number of students participated in a dental hygenist program at the University of Oregon Dental School. Students worked with the dental students as well as taking classes.

Tackling Apathy Grinding to Defeat

Ending a disappointing season, the Quakers managed to grind out a dismal record of 1 win 7 loss record. The only Quaker victory came over Adams 33-22.

"This year's season was especially tough because of a lack of team unity and team spirit," stated Coach Frank Wolf.

Honors this year were given to Jim Caputo for Hall of Fame, Eddie Flake for best back, and Cameron Neal for most improved.

The team will be hurt in strength with the loss of four seniors. All received honorable mention in the all-division football squad.

Winning Season
Placing 2nd

Franklin's fearless freshman had excellent young talent and a victorious football season.

Led by Coach Mr. Erik Utterstrom, the frosh discovered that teamwork wins games. The mini Q-Men ended their season with a 6 win 1 loss record and placed second in the city, an accomplishment that hasn't been achieved in many years.

Captains this year were Francois Wallace and Chris Pausz.

Cross Country

Winning Meets Running Hard

Dedication and discipline are the main ingrediants involved in one of Franklin's most demanding sports, cross country.

"This was one of my best years," stated Mr. Jon Abraham, coach. "Everyone had to work for what we got and we all worked well together," he continued.

The boys varsity team were competitive, according to Coach Abraham. "It was hard to choose the most valuable runner because they all deserved it." The State meet almost became a reality for the Varsity boys.

The girls' cross country team proved to be competitive this year. Chris Klauseman, Liz Babnick, and Debbie Slezak received 1st, 4th and 6th place ribbons at an invitational meet in Astoria. The team also came away with a first place trophy. Chris Klauseman took 6th place in the city meet and went to state.

Liz Babnick, David Leathers, and Mark Tidswell were named team captains. The most valuable runner for the boys was Bob Vories and for the girls, Chris Klauseman. Bob Vories and Chris Klauseman received the most miles run and David Leathers and Liz Babnick were named most improved.

The J.V. team was strong this year and will make up most of the varsity team next year.

Scott Hansen led the freshman team through the season. The freshmen finished third in city for the year.

Bob Vories and Liz Babnick were named to the Hall of Fame.

Overall, coach Abraham was impressed with the team's season.

Soccer

Posting Wins Failing Goal

Led by Mr. Jack Ryan, the boys' soccer team once again found the road to success and posted an eight win, five loss record.

Although the Quakers had both great offense and defense, they failed to compete well enough until the last of the season.

Highlights of the season involved the playing of George Sofikitis, who in six games scored 17 goals.

According to Coach Ryan, "Next year will be tough. We are going to be losing eight starting seniors, but with the remaining talent, we'll be able to pull through."

Most Inspirational went to James Simms. Most Valuable went to Surasak Tanatchangsang and George Sofikitis.

Girls' Soccer

Emphasizing Effort Showing Success

A "kick" for state was the "goal" set by the girls' soccer team. "Headed" off on the right foot, victories were unceasing.

Midway through the season, injuries and illness plagued the team and proved perilious. After three weeks of problems, dedication, discipline, and determination were the key factors that paid off as the girls "booted" a five win, seven loss record.

Junior Cathy Butler stated, "I think we gave one hundred percent this season. Even though we didn't win as much as we should have, we still enjoyed ourselves."

First-year soccer coach Mr. Paul Bolin was very enthusiastic about the season and extremely proud of the "gang." Stating that superstars are Superstars, but players make a team, Coach Bolin surmized that "The season was educational as well as enjoyable." "We were successful."

Honors this year went to Melia Torrence and Bev Brannon as team captains. Most Inspirational was also Melia Torrence. Most Improved went to Liz Bridges, and Hall of Fame was awarded to Melia Torrence.

Volleyball

Starting Well
Spiking Foes

Setting off the season by placing third in a tournament of eight was the highlight for this year's volleyball team.

The regular season started with powerful wins. Then came a slump from which the "spikers" were unable to recover.

"The team played much better than last year," stated Mr. Phill Smith, Coach. "Next year we hope to play more games and have a fuller season."

"Sizzling spikes" and "Blasting bumps" enabled Kelly Kosik to make the 2nd all city East division team. Kelly was also named Most Valuable Player. Karen Thiemann was named Most Inspirational, and Kathy Mullin was Most Improved. "JV and Frosh had a varying season and are teams of the future with loads of potential." surmized JV coach, Mrs. Marilyn Olsen.

Changing Attitude Winning Games

Led by the slick ballhandling of junior Scott Santangelo, the backboard strength of senior Rick Barrigan, and the sharp-shooting of senior Greg Hereford, the Maroon and Gray finished 4th in the East division.

The season was filled with overtime games and the Quakers walked away with about half of them. Coach Tom Thomas remarked, "We didn't really know what it was like to win, so we forced ourselves into losing. When we realized we could win, we did."

Greg Hereford was named Most Valuable Player and Vince Leary was named Most Improved. Cameron Neal was named Most Inspirational. Outstanding Rebounder was Greg Hereford and Outstanding Defensive Player was Vince Leary.

Basketball

Working on Basics Striving For Skills

Captained by Melia Torrence and Bev Brannon girls' varsity basketball exploded out of the gate with 3 victories. The situation reversed itself by the end of the season with 19 losses.

"We didn't play to our potential because of injuries and mental mistakes," commented junior Stacie Smith.

Despite a humiliating season, the team worked hard. Their aggressiveness proved effective on the court.

With a winning attitude, the powerhouse J.V.'s posted a 7 win, 9 loss record. This was the best performance on the J.V. level since the birth of girls' basketball.

Stressing Basics
Readying Team

The Freshman basketball team didn't start the season well, but they did make up for it later. Coach Utterstrom stressed basics and getting the team ready for J.V. and Varsity.

The Freshman had a tough season with a win record of 6, and a loss with 10, to end the season. The Most Inspirational Player was Chris Pausz and Clyde Monette and Terry Arnold were named the Most Improved players. The Best Defensive Player was Tim Clancy.

Preparing Team Frustrating Hopes

Starting with a new look in Coach, Mr. Wayne Lunde and an old problem, losing games, the 1977-78 version of J.V. basketball at Franklin began the season.

The team ended their season with a win record of 3, and a loss of 22. Coach Wayne Lunde stated, "We might not have won a lot of games, but we did prepare some players for the varsity level."

The Most Inspirational Award went to John Hall and Tracy Abernathy was named the Most Improved Player. Jeff Klacy received the award for Best Defense.

Competing Hard

The Quaker Rifle Club under the direction of Mr. Britt Davis has been in operation since the early '60's. A few fathers from the Franklin and Marshall Dad's Clubs got together and decided to use the area under Marshal's library for a rifle range. Franklin and Marshall are the only schools in Portland with access to this rifle range.

Because of the unusually long season, beginning in September and ending by the end of the third grading period, the team dwindled from about thirty to seven.

Going against tougher competition this year, the Franklin Matmen placed 4th in city. The Q-Men sent 7 competitors to the district meet. The team finished their P.I.L. season with a 10-win and 2-loss record.

The freshman team, coached by Mr. Richard Kassenbaum sent several competitors to the city tournament.

Given team honors this year were Captains Vince and Mark Barbour. Most Valuable went to Kerry Jobe, and Doug Walters received the award for Most Improved.

Summing up the season, coach Mr. Tom Dyar said, "The competition is getting tougher; The team is still as good, but the other teams are just getting tougher."

Swimming

Smashing Records Achieving Goals

Ending an outstanding swimming season, the Franklin Swim Team qualified 4 individual swimmers in 5 events and a girls' relay to the city meet. Placing third in city was the girls medley, made up of Chris Shakelford, Lori Willimont, Liz Bridges, and Kris Kalusman. Mark Tidswell took 6th place in the city in the 100 free, Joel Collier placed 5th in the 100 fly. Liz Bridges also placed 6th in the 100 butterfly. Most Valuable team member, Lori Willimont, placed 4th in the 50 free and second in the 100 breaststroke qualifying her for state where she placed 10th. School records fell to the power of the Quakers. 5 records were improved during the season.

Coach Mr. Ray Jacobus summed up the season "It was the best season since I became coach. I was very pleased by the work put in by the swimmers.

F-Rally

Promoting Spirit Involving Fans

Half of the six girls that made up the 1977 football rally were first year members. Proving that "newness" is no hindrance, the rally adjusted as a whole and sparked pride throughout the school.

To promote spirit the rally decorated lockers, organized assemblies, made posters and sold spirit ribbons.

"I enjoyed the season and the new friends I made," commented Peggy West.

The rally was made up by juniors Neva Deitz, Ramona Journagan, Peggy Kelley, Chris Shackelford, Peggy West and senior Ling Chan.

Dedicating Time Working Together

Six enthusiastic girls added to the thrills and excitement of the 1978 wrestling season. Aside from cheering on their respective team, the rally was also involved with making locker signs for the matmens' hall lockers, painting catchy slogans on posters, having gram and bake sales and providing treats for the team. "It was hard work, but the wrestlers helped a lot by having a winning season," stated Cathy Butler. Made up by juniors Cathy Butler, Yukari Ohno, Penny Ostrem, Zeena Pliska, Julie Sayre, and Debbie Slezak, this year's rally enjoyed the season and felt they were successful in promoting spirit. Penny Ostrem summed up the season this way, "Aside from the headaches, we had a fabulous time. We strengthened our friendship as the season progressed."

Inspiring Fans Supporting Team

The 1977-78 Basketball Rally started getting things organized in the summer. By getting an early start, they were ready by the time basketball season rolled in.

After-school practices, hard work and determination were beneficial to the rally. "I was pleased with the outcome of the season," said Linda Coon.

The rally supported not only the varsity basketball team but the boys' soccer team as well.

Seniors Kris Chatterton, Linda Coon, Lana James, Linda Meadows, Terri Sasaki and junior Jill Speciale, made up the spring rally.

Experiencing Motivation Adjusting to Crowds

Bickering over outfits and learning to live with compromise are a part of being on J.V. and freshman rally.

Practices for the J.V. rallies started in the spring following selections, and continued throughout the summer.

Varsity Track

Proving Powerful
Achieving Victory

Once again, the Franklin varsity boys' track team proved to be a powerful threat to their competition in the P.I.L. Coached by Jon Abraham, the "spikers" placed third in the city relays and in the city meet. Of the seventeen events that were run during the city meet at Madison, Franklin placed in six. Qualifying for state were Tim Hartwig, Tom Hayes, Rick Zyelinske, Aaron Lance, and Scott Williams. Sprinter "Scooter" Williams, won the 100 meters, 200, and anchored two of Franklin's state qualifying relay teams.

"A successful season, with a number of good performances," was the thought of girls' coach Mr. Paul Bolin. Although the girls remained winless throughout the season, they pulled out an impressive third place victory in the city relays, and respectable sixth place win in the city meet. Qualifying for state were Melia Torrence and Chris Klausman.

J.V., Frosh Track

Combining Talent Showing Promise

The Quaker boys' J.V. track team had a good year, remaining undefeated for the season and finishing fourth in the J.V. city meet. According to Coach Frank Londos, "The team did real well."

Outstanding performances were turned in by Jeff Forrest, Mel Anchetta, and David Grieve. Together, they combined for two hundred and nine points.

Led by Varsity Wrestling Coach Tom Dyar, the freshmen sprinted to a sixth place victory in the city meet and compiled a two win, five loss record. Jim Jusino, Warren Steenson, Jay Hathaway, Jerry Deitz, and Rick Flaum were noted for their talents and outstanding performances during the meets.

Summing up the season, Coach Dyar said, "I was proud of the performances the team gave. They show a lot of promise for the future."

Baseball

Scoring Well
Placing High

The Boys' Varsity Baseball team ended an outstanding season with a record of 15 wins and 9 losses. The team was coached by Mr. Wayne Lunde, and assistant coach Mr. Don Carlson.

Mr. Lunde was impressed with the season. "It was the best season since I have been coaching at Franklin. We are not where I want to be, but we're getting there."

Awards this year went to Doug Walters, for Most Inspirational and Best Defensive player. Most Valuable went to Jeff Schwab, and Best Offensive Player went to Scott Santangelo.

"Yes, we had a successful season" began Mr. Tom Thomas, J.V. boys' baseball coach. The Quakers ended their season with a 9 win and 7 loss record. Team Captain was Dave Brown; Most Improved went to Alan Camp; Most Inspirational was Jim Simms.

With a team batting average of .306, the freshman baseball team had a successful season. Outstanding players were Craig Mays, who led the team in hitting. Julio Uck was commended for his defensive play.

Golf

Driving Hard
Swinging to Success

"Successful" is the way Boys' Golf Coach Mr. Richard Mabry described the 1977-78 season. The Quakers posted a season record of 9 wins and 12 losses, an acceptable record considering it was a young team dominated by sophomores and juniors. John Darke, junior, led the squad, followed by Kent Ferris, Tom Palmer, Bill Weber, Victor Cooper, and Stan Hensley. The Most Improved golfer on the team was Bill Weber and the team's Most Valuable member was John Darke. Franklin sent three golfers, John Darke, Kent Ferris, Tom Palmer, to the City tournament. The ambitious goal for next season, according to Mr. Mabry, is "to send the whole team to City."

Under the new direction of Mr. Walt Buciewicz, the Girls' Golf Team ended their 77-78 season with 8 wins, 8 losses, and 1 tie. With team captain and Most Valuable Player Lisa Johnson, senior, the Quaker girls did well, missing the district tournament by one match. Lisa was also Franklin's representative in the girls' City tournament. The rest of the team included Kelly Tilton, Stacie Smith, Ann Oliverio, Keely Pillette, and Patty Hong. Stacie Smith, the team's Most Improved Player, is one bright spot for next year's team, which will have only three girls returning.

Tennis

Hitting Well
Smashing to Victory

"Yes, we accomplished all of our goals," commented Mrs. Marilyn Olson, girls' tennis coach.

The girls ended their season with 7 wins, 4 losses and were 4th in City. The Quakers sent 8 girls to the District Tournament. Vicki Durbin, Kathy (Mo) Mullins and Kelly Davis placed in the top 16. Most Valuable Player went to Kathy (Mo) Mullins, and Mary Jelino was named Most Inspirational. Most Improved went to Debbie Slezak and Vicki Durbin. Next season looks promising for the girls, since all of them will be returning.

The boys' team started almost from scratch this year. Jeff Elliott, senior, and Bill Geiger, senior, were the only returning members of the team. The boys' team was under the new direction of Miss Debbie Harris, who commented, "It was a successful season in that everybody got to play, everybody had fun, and everybody gained experience."

The boys ended their season with a 1 win 5 loss record. Jeff Elliott was named to The Hall of Fame, was Most Inspirational, and ended his season placing 6th in the District tournament. Bob Loewen was named Most Improved.

Softball

Improving Season Playing Well

Ending a disappointing season, the Girls' Softball team had a 7 win-9 loss record. The season ended with three games yet to be played. The weather was a big factor, with several games being called because of "liquid sunshine," while others were completed in the pouring rain and mud.

The team played against tough competition, and lost several disappointing games. The team's size was increased from 18 to 23, opening a few more positions. The team dwindled to the original size after a long season.

"The weather was the only thing that disappointed me about the season," stated Mr. Larry Barnett, coach.

The team will lose 4 seniors, but it has depth, and looks forward to another strong season.

Team co-captains for the year were seniors Vicki Luizzi and Liz Bridges. Most Valuable went to Annette Lewis; Golden Glove went to Teresa Marshall; Most Inspirational went to Sam O'Leary.

Freshmen

Starting Young
Driving Forward

Striking off a lively week, the class of 1981 began by calling the group together to introduce the cabinet and to inform them of the week's activities. This assembly helped promote involvement and provide unity within the class.

During the course of the week, May 17th through the 21st, a King Frog contest was held. This activity entailed contributing money to a favorite teacher's jar as a vote to the honor of King Frog. Winner of this title was Mr. Paul Bolin. Throughout the week, the freshman cabinet hosted various fund raising activities, such as selling ribbons, grams and baked goods. For the remaining portion of the week the ambitious freshmen sold snowcones and candy. The profits from the week's work totaled approximately $80.00.

Other highlights that the freshmen engaged in included special assemblies and sponsoring carwashes.

The newly-elected officers were responsible workers. They were willing to do whatever they could where they were needed in their activities. Working together helped to build a foundation to work from, and produced a good relationship with advisors Mr. Dean Mauchley and Mr. Yoshi Terada.

Russ Martin summed up his term as president by saying, "We had a hard-working cabinet that got everything done. It was a 'fun' experience for all."

Sophomores

Making Money Going Strong

Goals for the sophomore class Fall Cabinet were to raise money for the Junior Prom, raise spirit, and get all of the class involved in activities.

The sophomores tried to achieve those goals during their week, December 5th through 9th. As sophomore class President Teree Byrd said, "We tried to plan the week around the class."

The activities started with an assembly in which the cabinet discussed the activities with the class. During lunch and after school, grams, ribbons, candy, and "Quaker Critters" were sold. The week netted around $300, and Mrs. Jane Timmons, co-advisor, stated "We went over our money goal." Another money raiser was paper drives, which netted approximately $45.00.

Sophomores

Sponsoring Events Uniting Class

Selling candy, tee-shirts, flowers, snowcones, and F.H.S. visors were just some of the activities of the Spring Sophomore Cabinet. The group worked toward more involvement and better communication between the cabinet and class, and attempted to raise money for their Junior and Senior Proms.

Sophomore Week, April 3-7, was started by an assembly. An ice cream eating contest and a baby bottle drinking contest were featured.

During Sophomore Mini-Week, April 24, 25, and 26th, lunchtime activities included sales, a rootbeer chug-a-lug and guessing at the number of M and Ms in a jar. The sophomores ended the year with $608.77 in the treasury. Jerrine Westphal summed up, saying, "I hope next year's cabinet does an even better job than this year's."

Juniors

Helping Elderly
Promoting Spirit

Headed by President Zeena Pliska, the Fall Junior Cabinet began their money-making activities early in the summer. Egg sales, car washes and other activities netted the cabinet $59.

During Junior Week, October 17-20, money was raised by selling candy grams, buttons, and F.H.S. stocking caps. In the Junior Class assembly Mr. Burnam explained the importance of class spirit and participation. The traditional talent auction completed the assembly.

Brian O'Neal, D.J. from KPAM, played records during lunch one day. A pie eating contest, bobbing for apples, and a tennis shoe kick provided noontime laughs. Zeena Pliska summed it up by saying "It was a good week, in terms of profit. We worked and generated spirit." Total profits for the week were $235.

Becoming involved in a community project, juniors sponsored an ice cream social for the elderly, held at Laurelhurst park. Terri Crotteau stated, "I know it was really special and meant a lot to everybody, seeing our cabinet make the old people happy." Officers plan to have another ice cream social later in the year.

Juniors

Working Hard Completing Year

An exciting challenge met the members of the spring junior cabinet. Main concerns were financing the Junior and Senior Proms, and preparing the juniors for a hectic senior year.

During Junior Week, May 8 through 12, the cabinet sold frisbees, bumper stickers, buttons, helium balloons, balloon-grams, and locker signs. During lunch periods they sponsored activities such as a tricycle race, a bubble gum blowing contest and the taking of old-fashioned portraits. Pam North summed up the week by saying, "We had new ideas that we put into effect, and as a result the sales were profitable." The net profit of the week was good.

Fall Cabinet

Raising Money Planning Prom

"A vigorous group with many interesting and colorful ideas for activities," said Mrs. Moore, senior counselor, of the senior fall cabinet. The cabinet proved this true by more than doubling the class treasury and collecting blood for the Red Cross.

Money-raising activities for the prom were the main focus of the cabinet's attention. Senior week was one of the major ways this goal was accomplished. The treasury was boosted from approximately $450 to over $950 by sales of "super senior" t-shirts, ribbons, candy, grams, and kazoos. Not all senior week activities were concerned with finances, however. The cabinet sponsored a senior-faculty volleyball game, which the seniors lost by a score of 2-4, and a pumpkin carving contest among classes.

The cabinet sold Christmas grams, poinsettas, candy canes, and licorice the week before vacation.

A blood drive held in the student lounge was another of the cabinet's projects. Seventy-seven pints of blood went to the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Ann Thomas summed up the cabinet's achievements by stating, "Our cabinet has accomplished more this year than previous years and we're really proud."

Queen Tina

Coming Up Roses
Flying High

A Franklin Quaker reigned as Queen of Rosaria! The lapse of 36 years was forgotten. Amid the screams, shouts and tears of loyal subjects, Her Majesty Queen Tina (Klassy) returned to her school.

In a special assembly a week after Commencement, Quakers honored the girl they had chosen as the potential Queen. Band and Junior ensemble members presented spirited numbers to entertain the royal court. Queen Tina introduced the Princesses who accompanied her, their Rosarian escorts, chaperone, and the Benson High School drivers. Eileen Elmer presented Queen Tina with royal roses from the class of 1978. Many of their classmates returned to enjoy the triumph so long awaited.

A colorful and raucous procession of motorcycle patrolmen (sirens screaming) and chauffeur-driven cars (horns blaring) delivered the court to Franklin's doors. Media and student photographers recorded the event on film.

Banners announced "We Love You" and "Tina!" Colorful balloons bearing the legend "Flying High" floated above clouds of drifting confetti. Rhythmic chants of "Tina, Tina" proclaimed the excitement in the assembly which put school schedules in disarray and set the tone for the final week of classes. Festival fever swept serious pursuits aside, and Quakers rejoiced that, at last, Franklin's Queen was recognized by all of Rosaria!

Seniors

Working Actively Coordinating Plans

Spring cabinet, a group of vivacious, hard working seniors, accomplished a lot during their short term. During their week, they raised money for the prom, which cost them $1,300. Cabinet members sold grams, candy, ribbons, "Super Senior" t-shirts, and sponsored a paper drive. They sold plants on St. Patrick's Day, held a computer dating service which matched up couples according to their common interests, and held a car contest which judged cars on their appearance.

The cabinet held regular Wednesday morning meetings to plan the Senior's spring activities. One was the Senior-Faculty Basketball game in which the cabinet set a date, helped plan the assembly, and worked with the faculty to make it run smoothly. They also played a big part in running the May Fete activities and did all the work behind the Senior Luncheon.

Their advisors, Mr. Don Nelson and Mrs. Emma Moore, worked with both Senior cabinets and found the spring cabinet very cooperative. Mrs. Moore summed up her ideas by saying, "The committees cooperated well and activities turned out to be very successful."
